Creating Healthy Pastoral Teams for Parishes

How do you strengthen your pastoral team?

Every pastoral team should be a united entity, working together to build the Kingdom of God. The team is accountable to God for the parish over which he has placed them to lead. The pastor and his team are responsible for the spiritual health of the congregation: individually and the whole church community.

But every pastoral team brings different personalities, different goals, different communication styles, and personal “baggage” to every meeting.

This causes stress for the pastor, pastoral associate, ministry directors, councils, and even the maintenance staff!

When you aren't on the same page...

The parish suffers when the pastoral team isn't spiritually or psychologically healthy. When there is tension or disparity in your leadership group, your parish will “feel” that dysfunction. Spiritual growth for your parishioners could be stunted.

It doesn't have to be that way!

Take your parish to the next level spiritually by creating a synergy that will reduce stress and provide tools for team and parish growth. HOW? Read on...

“A three-ply cord is not easily broken.”

The West Virginia Institute for Spirituality can help!

With the help of professional spiritual directors and pastoral team experts, your team will learn how to unify your team.

You will work through issues in communication and learn how to pray together.

You will learn goal setting and how to focus on what counts.

Your team will be renewed in a relaxed setting that is tailored personally to your concerns.

You will concentrate on God's will in your life and in the life of your parish!
